LINDSEY STIRLING

Lindsey Stirling, born on September 21, 1986, is an American violinist, dancer, performance artist, and composer. She presents choreographed violin performances, both live and in music videos found on her YouTube channel, Lindseystomp, which she introduced in 2007. In 2010, Stirling was a quarter-finalist on America's Got Talent season five, where she was known as the Hip-hop Violinist.

Since 2010, Stirling has released a self-titled album, an EP, and several singles. She performs a variety of music styles, from classical to pop and hip-hop to electronic dance music. Aside from original work, her discography contains covers of songs by other musicians and various soundtracks.

Stirling is also a YouTube sensation: her music video „Crystallize“ finished as the eighth-most most watched video of 2012, and her cover version of „Radioactive“ won Response of the Year in the first YouTube Music Awards in 2013.

Her YouTube channel had, as of January 2014, more than four million subscribers and 520 million total views.

EARLY LIFE

Stirling was born in Santa Ana, California, but spent a portion of her childhood in Gilbert, Arizona and graduated from Mesquite High School. She moved to Provo, Utah to attend Brigham Young University to study therapeutic recreation. She went on to serve an LDS mission in New York City for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Stirling returned home to Provo in 2009 to continue studying at BYU. She resided there until December 2012, when she moved back to Arizona with her family. Currently she lives in Los Angeles, California.

CAREER

At the age of five, after being influenced by the classical music records played by her father, Stirling began to study the violin. She took private lessons for twelve years.

When she was sixteen, she joined a rock band in Mesquite High School with four friends called „Stomp on Melvin“. As part of her experience with Stomp on Melvin, Stirling wrote a solo violin rock song, and her performance helped her to win the state title of Arizona's Junior Miss and claim the Spirit Award in the America's Junior Miss Finals competition.

In 2010, at the age of 23, Stirling was a quarter-finalist on season five of America's Got Talent, where she was described as a „hip hop violinist“.
